

Hurricane Preparedness

What are some of the hurricane-season pointers outlined by the National Hurricane Center?

- ▶ Place all buoyant possessions safely in basement
 - ▶ If you live in a mobile home, break it up into small, non-lethal debris before storm hits
 - ▶ Throughout hurricane season, call your parents each day and let them know you're still alive
 - ▶ If you see a suspicious-looking hurricane sitting unattended, notify the National Weather Service immediately
 - ▶ To protect your skin from the harmful effects of hurricanes, wear at least a grade 15 stormscreen
 - ▶ Hurricanes named after women tend to build in pressure as the days go by, finally exploding into a rage; hurricanes named after men are shorter in duration, but never seem to be aware of how much pain they cause
 - ▶ Florida residents: Vote yes on Proposition 84 to put a hurricane-proof dome over your state
 - ▶ Listen to your local radio station for weather updates and potential REO Speedwagon broadcasts
